To perform a simple search, enter keywords, select a date range and a legislation type, and set whether you want to include file numbers, text, attachments, or other information in your search. Other information refers to legislation status, sponsor, or type. Note that when you select a date range or a type, the tab remembers this setting for the next time you visit the page.

The screenshot shows the search interface with the following search criteria: Search: (empty), All Years, All Types, file # checked, text checked, attachments unchecked, other info unchecked. Below the search bar, it indicates '0 records' and shows a table with columns for File #, Type, and Status. A message below the table reads 'Please enter your search criteria.'

You can also perform an advanced search, which enables you to increase the accuracy of your search results. Advanced Search results will match the combined criteria you enter in the search fields, so each additional field will narrow the results further.

Once your search results are displayed, you can set the number of records displayed on the screen, and sort the records alphabetically or by date depending on the column heading you click. You can also group the files by type, status, the date the file was created or the date the final action was taken on the file and you can export the records to Excel, PDF, or Word.

Click the links in the File # column to display details of the files, including file text and attachments. If there is history available for the file, that is, actions taken in meetings and the results of those actions, you can click links to view action details, meeting details and video.

The Calendar tab displays meetings in a specified date range for selected meeting bodies, using keywords you enter in the Search textbox. If you don't enter keywords, all meetings for the date range will display.
